BIG GATHERING IN LOUISVILLE

Country Teachers Urged to Attend School Improvement Conference.

CHILDREN'S WORK EXHIBIT.

Reduced Fares and Hotel Accommodations As An Inducement.

Mrs. Chas. P. Weaver, State organizer of the School Improvement League, has issued a call to all leaguers to attend the first conference of workers, in Louisville, November 30th. The conference will be held in the auditorium of the Seelbach Hotel. The railroads have made reduced rates, the fare from Hopkinsville and return being only $7.50. The hotels and boarding houses have also agreed to make reduced rates to visitors.

The Child's Welfare Conference and Exhibit will be held in Louisville November 25th to 30th.

The Southern Educational Association will be held also in Louisville
November 29th and 30th.

Louisville will be full of strangers on those days and no doubt many of the teachers of this county will be among the number.

Mrs. Weaver is doing a great work in the State and it will be remembered that she took a prominent part in the Teacher's Institute held here, under the supervision of Miss Jennie West, a few months since. She also spent six weeks visiting the rural schools with the county superintendent and organized about thirty leagues in the county, which have brought about a new interest in school affairs in the communities where leagues exist.

Mrs. Weaver is an enthusiast in her work for school improvement and most of her time is devoted to visiting the country schools in the State.

She is not laboring for pay but her aim is to secure a more efficient work on the part of teachers and elevating the Kentucky schools to a higher plane. As an evidence of her noble humanitarianism, she traveled and lectured over Kentucky for nearly four years without salary, receiving only her traveling expenses.

Miss Jennie West, the County Superintendent, is arranging to attend the conference and would be pleased for as many of the county teachers to attend as possible. She will carry two large trunks of articles made by the boys and girls of the schools in different parts of the county. We have seen many of these articles, and it is hard to conceive that children can accomplish what was on exhibition at the county fair at Kelly a week ago. Among the articles shown at the fair were whisk broom holders, chairs, a stepladder, a lawn swing, log cabins, a stockade port, plows, a large number of small baskets, doll and children's aprons, patchwork quilts, hemstitched handkerchiefs, hammocks, and many other articles too numerous to mention here.

The children never dreamed while they were busy with their work that what was evolved by patient endeavor would be placed on exhibition in the metropolis of the State.

But such is to be the case.

It is proper to say, here that one hour is devoted every Friday in teaching girls and boys in the county schools to sew, embroider, knit, use tools and otherwise make a start in other things as well as books to develop a predominant talent.

"Book larnin' is all right," says Uncle Ike, "but larnin' us how to live is de first thing of all."

The Louisville Board of Park Commissioners has again elected Gen.
John B. Castleman President, a position he has filled for many years as no one else could fill it.

The Rex people have been the busiest in town for several days getting ready for the opening of their place of amusement. The Rex Theatre. To-night the doors will be thrown open to the public and the bill of moving pictured attractions can not fail to draw a crowded house.

The first part on the reel will be
"The Battle Between Two Palms."

The second is a three-reel presentation of a battle between the Turks and the Balkans.

These photos were taken while the battle was raging, and are not drawings by an imaginative artist. With all the horrors of a fierce battle just enough romance has been injected to lend zest and anticipation to the completed work of the genius of those who have so well succeeded in giving to the people what is going on in the East. Two other reels will be used tonight, but it was not fully determined by the managers yesterday morning what they would be.

O, the place is a beauty! Go and see for yourself—we just can't tell you how beautiful and bright everything is.

The place will be decorated and everybody will be presented with a souvenir. Go early. Plenty of good seats.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Generally fair weather and temperatures below the seasonal average except for local snows Monday in the Great Lakes region and northern New England will prevail throughout the country in the next several days, according to the weather bureau.

"The next disturbance to cross the country," says the bureau's weekly bulletin, "will appear in the far west Wednesday or Thursday, prevail over the middle west Friday or Saturday and the eastern states near the close of the week. This disturbance will be preceded by a general rise in temperature, be attended by rains in southern and rains and snows in northern districts and be followed by decidedly colder weather which will make its appearance in the northwest Thursday or Friday.

AGED LADY PASSED AWAY

Mrs. E. C. Robb After Pretracted Illness Died Sunday.

HAD PASSED FOUR SCORE.

Was Woman of Great Piety
and Was Everybody's Friend.

Mrs. Evie Hester Robb, widow of the late Dr. E. C. Robb, died Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. R. J.
Carothers, of pneumonia.

Mrs. Robb had attained the age of 82 years, being born March 17th 1830. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. R. J. Carothers and Mrs.
J. B. Allenworth, of this city, and several grand and great-grand children. For several years she made her home in the city with her children, who during an illness of fifteen months, paid her every care and attention that loving children can.

Though pneumonia was the immediate cause of her death, owing to extreme age and consequent invalidism, many of her latter days were passed indoors, but she bore confinement and suffering with Christian fortitude. She united with the Christian church when a little child and lived the life that counts in this world—a life of perfect trust and faith, a saving faith in her Lord and Master. She was Everybody's friend and her kind heart went out in sympathy and love to all in bereavement and trouble.

The funeral services were held in the home of Mr. Carothers yesterday afternoon and the remains were laid to rest in Riverside Cemetery.

The frank statement of a neighbor, telling the merits of a remedy. Bids you pause and believe. The same endorsement By some stranger far away Commands no belief at all. Here's a Hopkinsville case. A Hopkinsville citizen testifies. Read and be convinced.

Mrs. I. P. Duke, 655 O'Neal St., Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills several years ago. I had pains in my back and sides, as well as other troubles arising from the kidneys. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended, I got a box and used them as directed. They promptly cured me and since then I have had no further need of kidney medicine. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they do just as advertised."

Sample of Ingalls' Setire.

Many years ago, when Senator Ingalls was in the senate, oleomargarine was a bone of contention. The debate led Ingalls to utter one of those epigrammatic sentences which made him famous. "I have never, to my knowledge, tasted oleomargarine," said Ingalls, "but I have stood in the presence of genuine butter with awe for its strength and reverence for its antiquity."

WHOLE TOWN UNDER ARREST

Legal Proceedings Will Cost Port Erin, in the Isle of Man, a Considerable Sum of Money.

The town of Port Erin, in the Isle of Man, was placed in a curious situation the other day when the town was put under arrest for failure to satisfy an execution for £2,250. Many years ago the high bailiff of Peel agreed with the Port Erin commissioners for the purchase by them of a property overlooking the bay. The new body of commissioners refused to complete the purchase. The high bailiff sued for a specific performance. Judgment was given against him. On an appeal to the privy council the matter was remitted to the judge, who made decree in favor of the high bailiff. Lord Raglan having refused to accept a motion in the house of keys voting £1,000 from the revenue in aid of the Port Erin commissioners, a constitutional deadlock arose between the two branches of the legislature. Tynwald cut the knot by empowering Port Erin to borrow the necessary money, to be spread over 25 years. Port Erin commissioners failed to raise the money promptly, hence the arrest. All properties, moneys and rights in rates have been arrested, and the obligations incurred will involve a rate of several shillings on the town.

PRISONERS KEEP THEIR NAMES.

No more ridiculous statement appears in the press than that a man in prison is known by his number and not by his name, according to the Outlook. The numbers are serial; those at Sing Sing are now over 60,000, those at Auburn over 31,000 and those at Clinton over 10,000. Imagine how cumbersome it would be to employ such numbers as names! The guards would be candidates for a madhouse if such a task were theirs. John Jones remains John Jones throughout his prison experience and only knows he has a number when he has business with the administration officers, when the number is used, in addition to the name, as a further means of identification.

NARROW, SAD FUTURE.

Senator La Follette pointed out, in an interview in Madison, the restricted future that confronts the young man of today, thanks to the trusts.

"Barred out of everything by these all-powerful combinations," he said, "the young man of today is in as pathetic a position as the young seal that asked its mother: 'Mamma, when I grow up, what do you think I'll be—a saque, a boar, a mull or a box of humble cuttles?'"

Dread Of An Operation.

N. Manchester, Ind.—Mrs. Eva Bashore, of this place, says: "I suffered female misery of every description. Two doctors attended me, and advised an operation. I lost weight until I weighed only ninety pounds. I dreaded an operation, and, instead, began to take Cardui. In a short time I gained 25 pounds, and feel as well as I ever did. Cardui, I am sure, saved my life." Cardui is today used in thousands of homes, where it relieves pain and brings back strength and ambition. It is a woman's medicine, for woman's ailments, and you are urged to try it for your troubles. Ask your druggist. He will tell you about Cardui.

GOLD IN VALDEZ.

Thousands of gold seekers who joined in the mad rush to the Klondike hurried over ground containing that very treasure which they expected to find at the end of their journey. Many of these gold seekers, indeed, must have passed in sight of the quartz vein near the Valdez glacier which 12 years later was developed into what is now known as the Cliff mine. This vein has averaged about $50 a ton, mostly in free gold, with little change in depth, the concentrates running about 7 per cent and carrying about $100 worth of gold to the ton, according to a report of the United States geological survey. This is probably a fair measure of the gold content of the ores of the district, though many property owners report contents ranging from $75 to $200, or even higher.

The Cliff mine became productive in 1910 and proved to be very profitable. Its success greatly stimulated prospecting by local miners and also attracted the attention of nonresidents, who quickly recognized the possibility of developing here a new mining district. As a result, several hundred lode claims were staked and considerable development work was undertaken in 1910 and 1911.

At this time Alfred H. Brooks, geologist in charge of the Alaskan work of the United States geological survey, visited the region and made an examination of its possibilities, and his report, just issued by the survey, shows that the most encouraging feature of the district is the fact that one lode has been profitably mined to a depth of about 400 feet and for about 500 feet along the strike. So far as can be seen, he states, there are no geologic conditions at the Cliff mine which are not found elsewhere in the region.

The Demons of the Swamps

are mosquitos. As they sting they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then follow the icy chills and the fires of fever. The appetite flies and the strength fails; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters kill and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C. "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 50c at all drug stores.

The Hard Part.

"Hub!" says the friend. "You get your money easy enough!" "Oh, I know I get it easily," replies the other. "All I have to do is stand in line for my pay envelope. It was the earning it I was kicking about—Judge."

Helps A Judge In Bad Fix.

Justice Eli Cherry, of Gillis Mills, Tenn., was plainly worried. A bad sore on his leg had baffled several doctors and long resisted all remedies. "I thought it was a cancer," he wrote. "At last I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was completely cured." Cures burns, boils, ulcers, cuts, bruises and piles. 25c at all drug stores.

ARRANGING FLOWERS AN ART

And One Which Every Hostess Will Find It to Her Advantage to Learn Thoroughly.

There is probably no branch of woman's work in the home where her personal taste and influence are more immediately recognizable than in the way the floral decoration of the dinner table is carried out when the mistress either undertakes the task herself or sees that the flowers are arranged strictly to her own on the subject. Every woman who wishes to be an ideal hostess should understand the art of arranging flowers.

The successful arranging of flowers is in itself a gift that is to a large extent denied to quite a number of otherwise artistic people. To exhibit the flowers to the very best advantage select those most suitable to the character of the decoration, making the most of the flowers at one's disposal and using the right kind of vases for each particular sort of flower is an art worthy of study by the woman who loves her home and desires it to be as artistic as possible. There are details in a table decoration that to the artistically gifted present few difficulties.

To those, however, who lack the necessary gift all these appear imposing obstacles. There is another class of persons possessing neither taste nor talent, and to these such difficulties are seldom apparent, for the good reason that hardly ever is an attempt made by them to arrange their flowers otherwise than by just putting them in vases on the table; perhaps an eminently wise practice in the circumstances.

"Why, yes, I have, uncle. I have been to N'Yawk. All the world comes there."

NEW HOTEL.

Rumor Says That It Will Be Built At Once.

For some time there has been talk of Hopkinsville having a new first-class hotel, but being unwilling to publish anything about it until something akin to the tangible could be learned, we refrained from saying anything, though we had learned enough to speak of it with some degree of assurance. Last Sunday the rumor was more definite and said that the new office building at the corner of Main and Eleventh streets is to be diverted from its original intended use and will be converted into a hotel.

Rumor also says that the building is to be carried to a height of five stories, the builders having already reached the top of the third story. It is also rumored that the man who is to lease it and run it has already been selected by the company erecting the building, and another story is to be added to the store room adjoining the one in process of erection.

We have some assurance that the project is not all "talk," as one of

HOW MIDWAY CAME TO LIFE

A $20,000 Investment on Its Boys and Girls.

IN MODERN SCHOOLHOUSE.

The Town Began Three Years Ago to Realize the Importance of Conserving Its Future Citizens' Health and Mentality—Plenty of Room to Play.

Many rural communities feel that any building and any grounds will do for school purposes. These communities have never thought definitely how far they have progressed in so many other lines. The average man will say when you press him for a reason for the poor school equipment in his neighborhood. "Well, that school was good enough for me, and I reckon it's good enough for my children." His own home, his farming implements, his lamps and all else in his life have changed from a "tallow candle and homestead hall" age to an "electric light and a steam thrasher" age.

Three years ago Midway and the surrounding country began to think it was time to have a twentieth century school plant. They began to feel that it would be well to have a building as good as any of their churches. At first the general public shook its head and mumbled under its breath, but gradually it began to see the wisdom of the movement and at last voted the funds necessary.

While the trustees planned a school that should be a credit architecturally, they did not forget to buy enough ground to give the energetic youngsters that were to be trained ample elbow room. The beautiful building stands well back from the turnpike on five acres of fine blue grass land. Behind and to one side of the school building is a comfortable stable stalled to hold twenty-four horses.

As is usual in school affairs all over the country, the trustees built this school with an idea of its taking care of all the pupils in the district for the next fifty years. Now, after only two and a half years, they are beginning to see the natural result of a fine growing school spirit among both children and parents. Today five grade and two high school teachers manage to teach the 250 boys and girls that are enrolled. This number is just fifty more than were enrolled last year. It is now plain that the school will have to add a new teacher each year to take care of the steady increase, and in five more years an addition will have to be built to take care of the children. Besides this yearly increase, the trustees claim that very few of those enrolled even try to play truant. Ample playgrounds, clean, warm schoolrooms, comfortable single desks, light and pleasant surroundings make school going less irksome, and the incentive for "playing out" has been removed.

Several schools rolled into one make many things possible. It allows the school fund to pay for a reliable janitor, who can heat, clean and care for the property as it should be cared for

MIDWAY'S SUCCESS.

It provides teachers for the different grades and makes efficient and strong work. By bringing many children to gether it gives a chance for the child to develop his social nature in a group of his own age. That the school at Midway is a success is put in plainest light. A school that has enrolled fifty new pupils this year that has added fifty children to the school population of Midway, that makes the renting of any kind of house in the town an impossibility, that in two and a half years does not show a scratched wall or desk, is a huge success.

Does all this answer the question of investment? Can any one ever figure exactly what stronger men and women in a community are worth? The school cost the community $20,000—is this the money a good investment for Midway? The answer can only come by asking any of the residents in the district of those who are willing to send their children five or six miles and pay extra tuition to have them in a new five twentieth century school.

Could Not Write.

Versailles, Ky.—Mrs. E. Isha Green, of this place, says: "I could not write all the different pains I had, when I first tried Cardui. I could scarcely walk. Now I am able to run the sewing machine and do my work; and my neighbors tell me the medicine must be good, for I look so much better." Cardui is a specific, pain relieving, tonic remedy, for women. In the past 50 years, it has been found to relieve women's unnecessary pains, and female misery, for which over a million suffering women have successfully used it. Try Cardui for your troubles. It will help you. At the nearest drug store.

What Texans Admire

A hearty, vigorous life, according to Hugh Taltman, of San Antonio. "We find," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Life Pills surely put new life and energy into a person. Wife and I believe they are the best made." Excellent for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. 25c at all druggists. Advertisement.

And So It Goes in Life.

"A girl," remarks Mack Cretcher, "must have dolls and ribbons and lots of fancy things to play with. A boy can have a pretty good time with nothing but a toad, a grasshopper and a few angle worms."

There's A Reason.

In selecting a Vacuum Cleaner for our subscribers, both old and new, we bought the best to be found in our opinion and we think we have chosen wisely. They are to be had as cheap as $1.85 and if you want one at that price give us your order and we will have a machine for you in a week or ten days, but not with our name on it and possibly not the manufacturer's name. We have got ones in stock and will be glad to have prospective customers make a thorough comparison of our machine with any one on the market at any price, work and material considered. Durability and success in use is our watch-word.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

CASSEROLE WILL STAY

COOKING UTENSIL HAS INNUMERABLE GOOD POINTS.

Simple Precautions Housewife Should Take to Insure Satisfaction in Its Use—Fierce Heat Always to Be Avoided.

The cooking done in casseroles has several important advantages over that of the ordinary kitchen vessel. The dishes are without the metal taste which so often contaminates common pots and pans. As the cooking is slow and thorough, the nutritive values of food are preserved and the perfection of their flavor is therefore concentrated.

The ornamental appearance of the various dishes used permits serving the viands in the very utensils in which they were cooked, which is a tremendous point when the dish needs to be eaten very hot. Food can be put away in the casserole without danger of changing color or taste, as would happen if it were left to chill in a metal vessel. The earthenware of which the dishes are made is not open to the acid influences of fruit, and therefore is without the possibility of any noxious change. The enamel of the inside does not scale off, it is easily kept clean, and so food prepared in the casserole is clean and sweet.

The pretty marmite for soup-making, the larger and smaller pots and shallow pans and plates, in every size, can be bought cheap in many department stores. Among the many shades of brown there are some green tones—these vessels of French make—which are very effective on the table. Some don't are involved in the proper care of the charming utensils.

Before using them for the first time the dishes should be soaked in cold water for some hours, as this will help to keep them from cracking on their first exposure to heat. Never put the vessels on the hot stove or in the oven without first putting in water or fat. Do not put them roughly on a metal surface or set them when hot on a metal table. A fierce heat is never desirable, and so even if the flame of the top of the stove is low it is best to put an asbestos mat under the vessel used.

Many more things for the preservation of these toy-like cooking vessels might be said, and for young housekeepers and girls who want to learn how to cook in a dainty and perfect manner they are certainly more inspiring than the common cook pot, pan and kettle.

Spiced Grapes.

Squeeze the pulp out of the grapes and cook it a few minutes until you can press it all through a sieve. Reject the seeds, weigh the pulp and skins, and to each pound of fruit allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar, one-half pint of vinegar, one-half tablespoonful of ground cloves, one-half tablespoonful ground cinnamon, one-half tablespoonful of allspice and one-half teaspoonful of ginger. Put all this into a preserving kettle, stir it frequently and cook it slowly for an hour. Put it into glasses, let it stand for two or three days and then cover with paraffin in the usual way.

Pineapple Pudding.

Take a pineapple, cut several slices and line a quart mold with them. Chop the rest of the pineapple into small pieces in a chopping bowl that will hold the juice. Fill a cup with the chopped pineapple and another cup with the juice. Beat the yolks of four eggs and mix the pineapple juice with them. Put this on the fire and stir until it thickens, then beat it smooth and add the chopped pineapple. Allow it to cool. Whip half a pint of cream and stir it into the egg and pineapple. Pour the mixture into the mold with the slices of pineapple. Let it stand for an hour before serving.

Pickled Oysters.

Cook one quart of oysters in their liquor till plump. Remove the oysters and add to the liquor half a cup of white wine vinegar. Skim as it boils, add one teaspoon of salt, two blades of mace, ten allspice berries and a few grains of cayenne pepper. Boil five minutes. Pour the liquor over the oysters, when cold seal in glass jars and put in a cool, dark place. They will keep two weeks. Serve with slices of lemon floating in plate they are served on.

To Beat Carpets.

An excellent device in rug cleaning is to put old (probably saggy) wire mattress upon the ground and lay the rug or carpet to be beaten upon it, says the Modern Priscilla. This will keep the rugs off the ground, thus allowing the dust to go through the springs without settling upon the other side of the rug, as is the case when the article to be beaten is spread on the ground.

Breakfast Gems.

One pint of sweet milk, one cup each of Graham and wheat flour, one egg, half a teaspoon of salt and a teaspoon of sugar. Beat eggs separately and stir everything well together. Butter gem pans and have them hot when dough is put in. Bake in hot oven.

Surprise Cooking.

One cup sugar, one-half cup shortening. Beat to a cream, add one-half cup milk, one beaten egg, three and one-half cups flour, sifted with three level teaspoons baking powder.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—"Kentuckian"
A virile, newsy newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are limited without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—Technical World Magazine
Is the magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the housewife who wants to keep away a summer's afternoon, and to keep abreast of the latest news. It is a magazine that is illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the facts of engineering and architecture, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What does Technical World mean? I have just changed upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers.

Third—A Fine Atlas
This one is just off the press. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures, 123 pages of 8 color maps brought right down to date—very map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double-page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in at 7 lines—silver binding—printed on heavy paper. 25c. a copy. Regularly $2.50. $2.00.

ALL THREE
Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas make this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

THEIR FIRST VACATION

Good Luck Follows First Visit to Theater.

By ANNA A. GREENLEAF.

The sunny little sitting room, which but a moment before seemed the abode of happy content, appeared suddenly to grow dark and chill, and its two aged inmates shivered perceptibly as the minister, after greetings were over, declined the proffered chair, and assuming his most formal preaching tone, delivered his message.

"The church has decided," he said, "that it must foreclose the mortgage upon your home next week, and you will doubtless be glad to hear that the 'Home for Indigent Women' at Mill Village is willing to take you as inmates, provided you can supply the necessary fee. I have recommended that the church advance forty dollars towards the amount and would have advised a larger sum, did I not deem your action in squandering your meager savings upon the feeding and burial of a more tramp quite reprehensible. Nevertheless," then a long clearing of his throat as though going on to his secondly, "we are inclined to be generous with you and I trust you fully appreciate our interest in your behalf."

Too stunned to speak, the sisters sat motionless as his footsteps went down the gravel walk and out of the front gate.

Mindy waited for Jane, who always took the lead, to speak.

At the look in her sister's face, Mindy felt all her secretly cherished hopes totter and crumble, and she grew dizzy and seemed to shrink and shrivel as her trusted support seemed to give way.

"Don't you mind, Mindy," she said calmly, white with indignation at the untimely reproach, "for God takes care of people with white souls like ours."

She stopped to put on her glasses, better to note the effect of her words upon the sensitive face before her. "Now this is my idea. We will take the four dollars and thirteen cents we have left and visit Boston. Yes, Mindy, and we must go tomorrow, and," here she hesitated, then making a bold plunge,—"Mindy, how would you like to go to a theater?"

Mindy involuntarily raised her hands and shocked surprise. "Why, Jane, you are beside yourself. You don't really mean!"

"Yes, I do, Mindy, and we are going if our money will spend that far."

The next morning the sisters rose early and dressed themselves with the greatest care. After eating their breakfast in silence, they made their way toward the railway station.

After the longest fifty minutes the old ladies had ever experienced, the rumble of the train was music to their ears. Once inside, they pulled their skirts closely around them, and holding them together in front with one hand, stretched the other hand around to smooth out any remaining wrinkles, before they sat down.

But it was not until they found themselves in the big Boston station in the midst of the busy, bustling crowd, that they felt that they were a real part of the great, throbbing world about which their tramp boy had told them so much.

"Oh, I'm so glad we came today," Mindy chirped delightedly, "when all these people are out!" Then, with sudden concern, "I ain't heard the clock strike since we've been setting here, have you, Jane?"

"No, of course not," Jane made answer; "one would think you had never traveled before. Hear the clock strike, indeed, with all this noise going on, and we a little deaf, too! But I fear we have set here longer than we meant to, but we can save time by eating our lunch on the elevated. Wasn't that the name of the train Tom said some people were so scary about?"

"Yes," replied the timid little woman, her heart thumping with fright, "that was the name, but don't you think we had better walk?"

"We can walk the rest of our lives, and today we are going to ride," and with the words, Jane took her sister's arm within her own and a moment later they were borne away by the laughing, chattering procession up numerous stairways and through many windings into the train.

"How will we know when to get out?" Mindy inquired anxiously.

A smartly dressed man with kindly, twinkling eyes overheard the question and upon learning their destination, offered to act as their guide.

Mindy thought she had never seen such a fine gentleman. When the car stopped with a jerk that would have thrown her from her seat, the object of her meditations held her back with his strong arm, at the touch of which she blushed like a school girl. They felt sorry when their escort left them, and watched him until the crowd hid him from sight. As they passed along they lingered before each show window. Suddenly they saw before them the gayly-colored posters adorning the entrance to a playhouse.

"This seems an awful waste of room," observed the practical Jane, as they made their way up the empty corridor under the direction of an attendant, who, taking in the situation, assisted them in buying their tickets.

The grateful couple thanked their kind-hearted attendant warmly when he left them at the door of the ladies' room, which was filled with beautiful women clothed in raiment even more magnificent than their fondest dreams had pictured, and the manner in which their hair was crinkled and frizzled was wonderful to behold.

One lady, whose hair was a wonderful shade of yellow and whose gown was of a shade the old ladies termed "magenta," exclaimed petulantly to her companion, "I shall be very uncomfortable without my handkerchief. Is it not provoking to have lost it?"

Forgetful of self in her anxiety to relieve the grand lady's discomfort, Mindy, with an alertness born of excitement, jumped from her seat and held out her embroidered handkerchief to the lady, with a polite, "I would thank you if you would let me give you mine."

"I thank you," she said gently, "but will you not need it yourself?"

"Oh, no," Mindy pleaded, "please do take it, for after today I shall never need it again."

Then a sweet, wonderful thing happened. The woman impulsively put her arms around the weakened form and implanted a kiss upon the wrinkled cheek.

But Mrs. Vandemere was not going to let her benefactress escape so easily, and as she followed the quaint little figure.

"Now we must get acquainted," she said cordially, "and you must introduce me to your friend."

"Now my dear friends," the lady cried gayly, "I have set my heart upon your company for this afternoon, you are too kind to disappoint me, I know," and tucking the old frail arms within her plump ones, they entered the theater and were ushered to a box, where were seated a smartly-dressed gentleman and a sad-faced lady, whom Mrs. Vandemere introduced as her husband and mother.

After removing their bonnets and smoothing out the ties with their customary care and precision the two sisters sat with hands primly folded, waiting for—they knew not what.

As they looked upon the stage with its gorgeous settings and superb scenery, Mindy, blissfully unconscious of her surroundings, caused a ripple of amusement to spread through the house by murmuring ecstatically: "Oh, Jane, it seems just like heaven, doesn't it?"

Never did players on the stage portray the comedy or tragedy of the lives of those whom they impersonate so truly as did the faces of these two simple country folk portray the pathos of their lonely existence. To the other occupants of the box the drama at their side became more interesting than that on the stage.

During an intermission they were adroitly led to talk of themselves, and finally Jane poured into interested ears the story of their "setting out," going back to the cold night of last winter, when they saw a ghastly face peering in at them through the window.

"We didn't have the heart to leave the poor unhappy creature out in the cold," Mindy chimed in as Jane stopped to take breath, "so I opened wide the door for him, but he looked surprised like at me, as if to run away, so I went out and, taking him by his ragged sleeve, led him in."

"Yes, sister led him in," continued Jane, "and settled him comfortably upon the lounge before the fire. One look into the young dissipated face told us that he needed our love as well as our care. I set about making some ginger tea and gruel, while Mindy, who loves to coddle folks, talked to him comforting like, and smoothed back his hair from his temples."

"He was very ill and Mindy stole down many times during the night to bathe his hot face and try to ease his hacking cough. We kept him with us only a month. He got better, and at times seemed cheerful and light-hearted and tried so hard to amuse us by telling about big cities and great men and lovely women and concerts and theaters."

"He did not once mention his folks, and we asked him no questions, and when the hemorrhage took him so sudden he placed his ring in my hands," and taking off a well-darned glove Jane displayed a magnificent solitaire in unique setting, upon the inside of which was inscribed a date.

"It is all I have to give you," he said. "My mother and sister gave me this ring on my twenty-first birthday. They were so proud of me, but I proved myself unworthy of their love. Throughout all these years I have treasured it."

When Jane ceased speaking the mother and daughter, strangely tense and pale, stared at each other, but the lowering of the lights concealed their agitation.

"My dears," said the stately woman, smiling softly, "I must not let you go until I have told you of the happiness you have brought me today, for you have eased a mother's heart of the uncertainty regarding the fate of her only son."

"You mean that you are, that you are—why, of course—how could I be so stupid?" and without another word Jane took the ring from her finger and placed it in the mother's hand.

The Vandemere carriage took the party to the station, where the good-bys were said.

"Give yourselves no concern for the future," Tom's mother said at parting, "for the old home is still yours, and so it shall always remain. We shall visit you soon to thank you for your kindness to my dear son. Until then, good-by."

Aroused from sleep by the friendly hand of the conductor, the travelers soon found themselves on the road that led home.

Upon reaching the well-worn stoop Mindy folded her hands and bowed reverently as Jane's earnest tones broke the silence: "Blessed be God, which hath not turned away my prayer, nor his mercy from me."

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request. THE PAXTON TOILET CO., BOSTON, MASS.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Freckles," a play stronger than the book of same title, to be seen at Holland's Opera House on Friday, Dec. 6, unearth the secrets of "The Lumberlost Swamp" region with an excellent production and cast of players.

It is but a few years ago that Gene Stratton-Porter gave to the world "Freckles." It proved a delight to the modern fiction readers, with the result that more than a million have been amused with its quaint story of the folks of the Lumberlost Swamp country of Indiana.

There have been many stories, strong in all intrinsic points which go to make up an absorbing story, but they are of no value to the stage—the action is lacking. "Freckles," however, is the reverse. It is stronger as a play than it was as a novel. The secret of the "Lumberlost" region with its phantom sounds and virilistic people, make the plot and story replete with action.
